Last Week's Run

text by Stumbles, pix from Snail Trail

Piggy was the orchestrator of today's proceedings, siting the A bucket in a place where he feels most at home, a pig farm. About 25 of the usual suspects gathered with a few long time returnees making an appearance after Covid induced absences. The run took us through mostly forest trails with a few moderate hills to negotiate. A certain degree of confusion ensued due to paper from previous runs strewn along the trail. Apparently, I'm reliably informed, at one point Titty Smoker was actually following his own paper from a run he had set some weeks before. Having said that, a very enjoyable run of about 5.5 km and excellent work from the Pigster.

Harebrief: Chatterbox quietly paying attention. Chuckwao can't stop chatting.
