Last Week's Run

The hares for today's run were Cumalot and HRA and the A bucket was about 5 km down the Samoeng Road from the Canal Road intersection. About 25 of the faithful came along on what turned out to be a very nice clear day. We had been blessed with a very welcome rainstorm a couple of days earlier clearing a lot of the air pollution which is very much an all-too-common environmental catastrophe we have to endure at this time of year in the north of Thailand.

When I arrived at the A site I was met by Deep Throat, the beer monster, who was taking issue with the whippersnappers. Having kindly helped him unload his truck of the essential post run refreshments, they then immediately started helping themselves and digging into the snacks he had bought along for a little after run sustenance. Don't their parents feed them?

Cumalot gave a very detailed hare brief and we set off along the adjacent road. We had only gone about 20 metres when we turned into the forest and straight away we were confronted by a very steep hill that required ascending. This run had all the hallmarks of a fiendish HRA plot and was certainly not going to be the proverbial walk in the park. We huffed and puffed our way to the top of the hill, along dusty trails and it wasn't long before we came to the Wimp – Rambo split. I decided to take the Wimp trail as I reasoned the run up until this point had been Rambo enough for my requirements and I was justified in taking the easier option. The easier option is a little misleading. A better description would be a slightly less difficult option as the Wimp run turned out to be over five and a half km and the Rambo was only one km longer. There was also the added burden of false trails to be overcome on the Wimp trail which the locating of doesn't usually come under the responsibilities of us leisurely runners..

Arriving back at the A site I spotted Chuck Wao looking very pleased with himself sporting a smile from ear to ear. I'm sure you are all aware that Mr. Wao has an uncanny ability of finding money in the most obscure places on a very regular basis. Today was no exception and he took great delight in informing me he had found coinage and was 4 Baht to the good. I congratulated him on his newly gained wealth and thought nothing more of it.. A while later talking to Titty Smoker, the hash cash, who confessed there was a 3 Baht shortfall in his books. When Mr Smoker got wind of Chuck Wao's find, he confronted Chucky wanting to know where he had found the money. It transpired that it had found in the vicinity of where Titty had been conducting his hash cash duties. Titty therefore assumed the money must be his.. Mr. Wao retorted, saying that he had found 4 Baht and that the likelihood of Titty dropping 3 baht right next to a 1 baht coin in the middle of a field was highly unlikely. The last I heard the issue was still being discussed.

Anyway, Cumalot and HRA provide us, once more, with a great workout in the North Thailand countryside. Thanks very much guys. A great hash was had by all.
