Last Week's Run

Text by Stumbling Dyke, pix from Periodical and Skid Mark

It was a hot sweaty, sultry day in the middle of the hot season and Sloppy and Kevin had set the latest episode of the CSH3 out in San Sai. About 20 of the usual suspects turned out for their offering. The A Bucket was apparently near a very beautiful lake, but on the route I took I never got to see it. Although the run took us along some really good trails, in an area I personally can't remember visiting for quite some time. I think there may have been a certain amount of confusion on the Rambo trail because everyone seemed to return from different directions.

The usual pre circle technical analysis of the run got underway leading to the circle which was set in the middle of a super highway with a myriad of vehicles interrupting the proceedings and Chatterbox having to explain our antics to the village headman. I can't recall much of particular note about the circle other than Square Rooter kicking my beer over – A grave hash sin if there ever was one. Scooby got the wings after finally achieving his century. He seems to have been a regular visitor for the past 15 or 16 years and only now made it to 100 runs. I think there should be an award for the hasher who takes the longest time to get to 100 runs. Anyway a great run guys followed by excellent pizza at the pizza place in Doe Saket – I can never remember the name of it.

Pig Shit and Graven Image following paper through the bush

Skidmark on trail

Followed by Dana

Piggy looking for powder, Turkish looking to shortcut

Alex enjoys the clean, Chiang Mai air

Question: How did Tiptoe get ahead of the FRBs?
Answer: He was following the short-cutter Frozen
Dick

Graven Image at the last circle check

Circle up! No need to wait the GM, Tiptoe.

Happy Ending, Sheep Shagger, Square Rooter and Stumbling Dyke are ready

Sheep Shagger congratulates the hares, Kevin and Sloppy, for an excellent hash run

... and then has a go at Skiddy and Scoob

Gravy has some kind words for Piggy

Hash Shit to Sups for racing, short-cutting, then lying about it

Congratulations Scooby Doo for finally making it to 100 runs.
